Crisp Printing Easily Maintained on Bixolon Thermal Printers
Announcing a Cleaning Pen designed for Bixolon Thermal Printers

AUBURN, Maine—March 1, 2010— Maintaining the quality of printed crisp receipts or barcode labels requires the proper cleaning tool. Bixolon has approved and now offers a cleaning pen developed by KICTeam. This new Bixolon Thermal Print Head Cleaning Pens can be used on any thermal printer which has an accessible print head. This new cleaning pen is a quick and almost effortless means of removing any leftover adhesive residue or paper dust that can deteriorate the legibility of the print.

“We are pleased to introduce the new Bixolon Thermal Print Head Cleaning Pens as part of our printer preventive maintenance program,” said John Choi, Product Engineer. “Our customers can increase printer longevity and maintain the quality of printed materials by implementing consistent use of this new cleaning pen. We are pleased to offer this through our current distribution and service provider network.”

“The new Bixolon product was designed for easy use on printers that have accessible print heads. This new cleaning pen is versatile and cleans any size printer as long as you can touch the nib to the print head surface. This product is ideal for fast and effective thermal printer cleaning and maintaining the clarity of the printed label or receipt,” explained Debra Ross, Product Manager / OEM Business Development Worldwide, KICTeam. “It’s really about using the right tools for the job. By using this Bixolon approved product with a proper maintenance schedule, the printers will print clearer and last longer.
